

MISSED BEING A MILLIONAIRE.

A Man Who Once Owned All of Johannesburg.

"Few people are aware," says the Westminster Gazette, "that the site of Johannesburg and a large tract of the surrounding land was once bought for £350. But such was the case, and the purchaser now lies a confirmed invalid in the workhouse infirmary at Guildford. The old man seems to have had a most remarkable career, having been in the service of the old East India Company, fought in the Crimea, being seriously wounded at the siege of Sebastopol, and afterwards passing through the Indian mutiny. He then went to South Africa where he fought against the Zulus and the Boers. Before the Transvaal was made over to the Boers he purchased for £350 some 15,000 of acres near the source of the Crocodile, better known as the Limpopo, where he made up his mind ultimately to settle. But war broke out, and he took up arms against the Boers and formed one of the party who held Pretoria. In 1880, when the republic was declared, he refused to accept service under President Kruger, the result being that his land, now estimated to be worth many millions sterling, was forfeited."

CLASS COFFINS.

A Device Calculated to Revolutionize the Undertaking Business.

CHICAGO, ILL., April 15.—Local undertakers are interested in the proposition of an Indiana company to manufacture glass coffins on a large scale. In an interview George F. Kimball, the plate-glass manufacturer, stated that the idea is entirely practicable, and that coffins can be made from glass much more cheaply than from wood.

Kimball said that such coffins could be constructed in the cheaper grades for not more than 50 cents a running foot. Coffins made from glass would be much more durable than metallic caskets, and their extreme cheapness would cause their adoption extensively in cases where death is due to contagious diseases, in which the law requires an hermetically sealed casket.

A new method of manufacturing glass, whereby it is made to so closely resemble the most costly wood that the eye cannot distinguish the difference, will enable the manufacturer to lend infinite variety to his product.

The Good Qualities.

Possessed by Hood's Sarsaparilla are almost beyond mention. Best of all, it purifies the blood, thus strengthening the nerves. It regulates the digestive organs, invigorates the kidneys and liver, tones and builds up the entire system. It cures dyspepsia, scrofula, catarrh and rheumatism. Remember, Hood's Cures.

Hood's PILLS act easily, yet promptly and effectively on the liver and bowels. 25 c.
